

Problem-Solving and Negotiation Response

A short written task to analyze a conflict and suggest a professional solution.

Session	Session 4: Critical Thinking, Problem-Solving, Negotiation, and Conflict Resolution Skills	Assignment Type	Individual Written Task
Assignment Title	Problem-Solving and Negotiation Response	Total Marks	20
Submission Format	Written document only - no audio or video	Suggested Length	1-2 pages
Student Name	Ali Hatem Tahssin	Student / User ID	206826

Assignment Brief

One Practical Assignment
A team member or client is unhappy because a task is delayed and asks for extra work without changing the deadline. Write one professional response plan that shows how you will analyze the problem, choose a solution, and handle the conflict calmly. - Separate the situation into facts, assumptions, and one key problem statement. - Suggest two possible solutions and choose the best one with a short justification. - Write a short negotiation message that shows respect, explains your proposed solution, and keeps the relationship positive.

Required Written Submission

Final Output	- Facts, assumptions, and problem statement table. - Two solutions with one selected option and justification. - Professional negotiation message: 100-150 words.
---------------------	---

Evaluation Rubric - 20 Marks

Criteria	Marks	What the trainer will check
Critical thinking analysis	5	Clearly separates facts from assumptions and defines the real problem.
Solution quality	5	Solutions are practical and the selected option is justified logically.
Negotiation and conflict handling	5	Message uses professional tone, respect, clarity, and win-win thinking.
Formatting and language	5	Submission is structured, concise, and professionally written.

Submission note: The assignment must be completed in writing only. Do not submit voice notes, videos, or presentation recordings.

1. Facts, Assumptions, Problem Statement

Type	Statement
Fact	The task is delayed.
Fact	The client/team member is asking for extra work with no change to the deadline.
Assumption	They think I can just "add more" without it costing time.
Assumption	They may believe the delay was avoidable or due to poor effort.
Opinion	"This is unfair" (their feeling, not a verified fact).

Problem Statement: The client wants extra work added but still wants it done by the same deadline even though the task is already late. There isn't enough time for both.

2. Two Solutions

1- Extend the deadline a little bit to fit the extra work.

2- Keep the same deadline, but reduce or change priorities of the scope so you deliver core deliverables on time and the extra ones are delayed

Selected: Option B Justification: It respects the client's deadline, avoids overpromising, and still gets them value now instead of a long delay.

3. Negotiation Message (100–150 words)

Hi client, thanks for flagging this, and I understand the delay is frustrating. I take responsibility for that. Given the current timeline, adding the extra work now would risk lowering the quality of everything that is due.

I suggest that we deliver the original task on the current deadline, fully completed and reviewed. Then I start on the additional items after, with a clear delivery date within 3 days. This way you get a solid result on time, and the extra work follows quickly.

If this timing doesn't work for you, I'm happy to discuss adjusting priorities together so we land on something that works for both of us. Let me know your thoughts.